WORK FOR CONGRESS

What is Expected From Both Branches.

PROGRAM OF BOTH HOUSES.

But Little Will Be Accomplished the Present Week—Only Three Days For Business—Senate Retarded by the House—The Tariff and Hawaiian Questions the Two Leading Ones.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—In accordance with its resolution of adjournment congress will reconvene on Wednesday of the present week. It is not probable that the senate will really get down to close business application during the week, and some of the most experienced observers of the course of the senate under circumstances similar to those which will surround that body when it shall reconvene, freely predict that there will not be a quorum during any part of the present week, and that, therefore, no important business will be undertaken until Monday, the 8th.

The senators generally feel that there is little that the senate can do in the way of promoting legislation until the house shall act upon some of the measures before it. The senate calendar contains 104 reported measures, but there are less than half a dozen of these that will require any great amount of time for consideration. There are a number of claim bills, of which the McGarrahan and the Woodbridge are the most prominent, which will in all probability be disposed of at an early date, but whether this week or next or later still, will depend altogether upon circumstances.

The most important bill on the calendar is the federal elections bill, and it is possible that it may be taken up for speech making during the week, though it is not likely that there will be an effort to pass the bill during the week.

The bill increasing the bank circulation to the full amount of bonds deposited is also still before the senate and in condition to be taken up at any time. The senate is not likely to discuss the Hawaiian question again while the foreign relations committee's investigation is incomplete, so that the subject bids fair to remain in abeyance for some weeks unless there should be some unexpected development. The outlook for legislation is not, therefore, very good either for the present week or for the immediate future. The senate will do comparatively little until the house sends the tariff and appropriation bills over.

House Forecast.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The program in the house for the coming week has not been definitely arranged, but it is probable that the tariff and Hawaiian questions will both figure. The tariff debate will begin as soon as the house reconvenes on Wednesday. The Democratic members of the ways and means committee have not yet decided upon the limit which will be set on the debate, but the Democratic leaders seem to believe that it ought not to run more than two weeks, four days for general debate and the ten days for debate under the five minute rule.

Whether Mr. Wilson, who is to open the debate, can speak on Wednesday, will depend on whether the Republicans insist upon the full reading of the bill before the debate begins. Inasmuch as the formal reading of this bill was dispensed with when the McKinley bill was considered, the Democrats do not believe that the objection to dispensing with the reading of the Wilson bill will be interposed by the Republicans. In that case Mr. Wilson's opening speech will be heard on Wednesday, followed by that of Mr. Burrows, who will reply to Mr. Wilson's argument for the Republicans.

At the very outset of the tariff debate, however, it will be antagonized by the Republicans, who will come forward with the Hawaiian matter. Mr. Bontelle of Maine served notice that as soon as congress reconvened he would call up the resolution which he introduced and which, he maintained, was of a privileged character. The question as to its privileged nature was held in abeyance by the speaker, to be decided when it came up formally before the house.

In order to prevent embarrassment on this point, it has practically been decided by the Democratic leaders to allow the Hawaiian matter to be brought up in the shape of the McCreary substitute for the Pitt resolution on Friday, and to give that day and the next Saturday for its consideration.

Whether the McCreary substitute, which condemns ex-Minister Stevens, will be passed or not is doubtful, the purpose at this time being only to give both sides an opportunity to ventilate their views in order to get this question temporarily out of the way so that the tariff debate can proceed uninterrupted.

It is not probable that any attempt will be made at the outset to set a limit to the tariff debate. It will be allowed to run two days, perhaps three, and then if the Republicans decline to acquiesce in the Democratic plan, a special order fixing the limits of the debate will be brought in from the committee on rules.

It is barely possible that some measure for the relief of the treasury may upset the present prospects in the house for the present week. The surplus is at its lowest ebb and some proposition for the repletion of the national exchequer may be brought forward.

BIG GAS SCHEME.

Ohio Towns to Be Supplied From the Indiana Field.

LIMA, O., Jan. 1.—Work will soon begin on the project of piping natural gas from the Indiana field to this city and other Ohio towns. Senator Calvin S. Brice and Dr. S. A. Baxter are the leading spirits in the enterprise. The undertaking is one of great magnitude, and has been in contemplation for the past year. It has long been a conceded fact, not only by the gas company of Lima, but also of other companies engaged in the industry, that unless they could secure a supply of the caloric fluid from some other source, their plants, in which an enormous capital is invested, would practically be rendered valueless. To obviate this dire calamity, Dr. Baxter and his associates, conceived the plan of piping gas from the Indiana field in sufficient quantity to meet all demands of this section of Ohio, where it is used as a fuel. The company has secured leases on over 10,000 acres of gas territory located in Jay, Delaware, Blackford and Madison counties, Ind., and are acquiring more, and expect to make the block 20,000 acres before they are through with this part of the scheme. Their objects are to furnish gas to all the different companies who now have plants in operation, but are sadly in need of a supply. In the list are embraced the following cities and towns: Dayton, Springfield, St. Mary's, Van Wert, Lima, Sidney, Piqua, Troy, Covington, Versailles, Bremen, Minster, Urbana, Celina and two or three other places. By the leading lights of the big undertaking it is claimed that in these plants there is invested over $5,000,000, and all are dependent for their supply from the small area of territory in Auglaize and Mercer counties, the pressure of which has been reduced to a mere nothing, and is virtually exhausted.

Hundreds of Persons on a River When the Ice Suddenly Breaks.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Jan. 1.—The Merrimac river was the scene of a narrow escape from a frightful accident. More than 100 men, women and children were on the ice. Since the river has been frozen over the operatives in the Haverhill factories, who live in Bradford, have walked across the river on the ice, instead of on the railroad bridge. There were more than 100 persons on the ice near the bridge Friday noon, when suddenly, without a moment's warning, the ice broke up with a report like a cannon. A dozen or more persons were precipitated into the water, but managed to scramble back on the floating cakes of ice or were rescued by their friends. The people managed to reach the shore in safety by jumping from cake to cake. The ice on the Haverhill side had broken away from the shore for about 20 feet, and boards were run out from the shore. When the tide rose Friday noon the ice swung away from the Bradford side, rose in the middle of the stream, and in a few minutes the river, from the railroad to the passenger bridge, was filled with floating cakes.

Killed by an Electric Car.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 1.—Edward Laffy, an iron worker of the West End, was run over and killed shortly after midnight by a West End electric car. Valentine Miller, the motorman, and three others are under arrest pending the coroner's investigation. Laffy had a fight with the three men about an hour before he was killed, and this caused a rumor that his death was not the result of accident. Miller was released on $1,000 bail. He claims that he is innocent and that he did not see the man. The coroner, however, is of the opinion that Laffy was drunk, and laid down on the track.

Death of William Richardson, One of Brooklyn's Railroad Magnates.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—William Richardson, prominent in Brooklyn for many years as a street railroad magnate, died at his residence Sunday from congestion of the brain and an attack of bronchitis.

The deceased was born in Borkhamstead, Hertfordshire, England, Dec. 8, 1823, and came to this country in September, 1834, with his parents, who settled at Gambier, O. Young William secured employment on the Knox County Republican at Mt. Vernon, O. In 1840 he came to Albany, N. Y. He was elected clerk of the assembly in 1856 and re-elected for two successive terms. In 1860 Mr. Richardson joined the editorial staff of the Albany Evening Journal. At the breaking out of the war in 1861, he was appointed by President Lincoln as paymaster in the federal army. The same year he came to New York and began his successful career as a railroad manager.

NEBRASKA HORROR.

Omaha Comes to the Front With a Startling Tragedy.

THE ENTIRE CITY STARTLED.

John Cummings Locks Himself, His Wife, Baby and Grandmother in His Own Home and Then Sets the Lamp, and All Are Burned to Death—Caused by a Drunken Quarrel.

OMAHA, Jan. 1.—On marble slabs, at the city morgue, lie the charred remains of the family of John Cummings. Father, mother, baby and grandmother are there awaiting the outcome of the inquiry which Coroner Maui has begun into the cause of the tragedy which started the city Sunday morning. Nothing in Nebraska's annals approaches the deed for horror.

Cummings had been in ill health for some time, and according to 12-year-old Tommy Fox, who was present, he deliberately set fire to his own house and caused the death of his mother-in-law, his wife and his 1-year-old baby, in the flames. The little boy tells a straightforward story, and when asked how the fire originated, he said:

"Cummings was sitting on the edge of the bed in a rear room where Mrs. Cummings also was with the baby. Another person in the room was Mrs. Fox, the mother of Mrs. Cummings, my aunt. There was a fuss about something and Cummings upset the lamp and closed the door, compelling all the inmates to stay there. They cried, but he refused to let any of them out."

Phillip Nathan, a next door neighbor, says that when he first saw the flames he noticed Mrs. Cummings trying to open the shutters to the window of the bedroom. He heard her cry out and say: "My baby is already on fire." Soon thereafter he saw the woman enveloped in flames.

Miss Nellie Fox, who is a relative of Mrs. Cummings, said she was a frequent visitor to the house; that Cummings had been sick for quite a long time. She disputed her brother's statement about Cummings having purposely knocked down the lamp to burn the entire family, but the boy answered that he saw him do it. He also added that when he first took notice he saw Cummings sitting on the bed crying.

The basement of the house was occupied by John Sturt, who has a contract for feeding the city jail prisoners. Sturt and his assistant, Denny Sexton, were in that part of the basement directly beneath the room in which the bodies were found up to the time the fire broke out. Sexton gave a vivid description of the scuffle in the room above immediately before the flames were detected and confirms in many respects the story of the boy who witnessed the dreadful tragedy. "For several nights," remarked Sexton as he stood in the wreck of his quarters, a few minutes after the fire was extinguished, "the folks in the room above have been carousing. About midnight they would begin to quarrel and sometimes would fight among themselves for an hour, and then quiet would be restored gradually as if they were all exhausted.

"I knew they had a great deal of whisky up there several nights. Sometimes both of the men, Fox and Cummings, would be quarreling and fighting between themselves, and then they would turn on the women. The trouble that resulted in the fire up there began early Saturday night. I heard them swearing up there all the evening. The disturbance increased toward midnight, and frequently oaths were heard. I distinguished the voice of a boy, a woman and two men.

NEW BANK BILL.

Chairman Springer Prepares a National Currency Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Chairman Springer of the banking and currency committee of the house has prepared a national currency bill providing for the issue of legal tender notes to any banking organization under the laws of the United States, or any state or territory which is insolvent or has a capital account in cash of at least $25,000. The notes are not to be subject to the 10 percent tax except as provided in the act, and the bonds deposited for their security are exempt from taxation during the time they are on deposit. The banks depositing bonds must guarantee their payment, and all the assets of the bank are liable therefore. Stringent provisions are inserted for enforcing the liability of banks to the United States and for determining the safety of the securities deposited.

THE POPE WAITING FOR DEATH.

He Is Not Ill, but He Knows the End Is Not Far Off.

ROME, Jan. 1.—As there have been a good many reports regarding the health of the pope it may be interesting to know the truth, which is as follows: His holiness, considering his age, is as well as can be expected. He is, however, in what has been described by himself a state of resignation, caused by the feeling, ever present before him, that the span of his frail life can not be extended very much longer. He constantly refers to the probability of his death with a calmness and serenity which are as remarkable as they are beautiful.

It will be placed on record in the history of the world that the latter years of Leo XIII's reign were passed in the interested contemplation of the progress of the Roman Catholic church in the United States. This is in fact the dominating interest of his closing years, and he takes this in every way possible. He receives this in every way possible. He takes the deepest interest in the progress of Mr. Satolli's work.

His holiness has received portraits of ex-President Harrison and President Cleveland, which pleased him very much. Being shown later a large photograph of the American liberty bell, he scrutinized it, and after asking for some particulars, said: "I notice they rang it so vigorously in the cause of liberty as to crack it," referring to the well known crack in the bell. At the Christmas ceremony the pope looked singularly well. His response to the address of the cardinal was considered exceedingly happy in its expression. During the past few days the pope has been taking walks daily in the Vatican gardens. His holiness at present is engaged on an encyclical on the subject of sacred music. He recommends the study Gregorian music, and exhorts the bishops and priests to exclude from their churches music which may have theatrical tinges.

WILL BE GIVEN HEARINGS.

Interest Which Will Be Affected by the Wilson Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Senator Allison in a brief conversation said there was little or no doubt that the senate committee on finance, of which the senator is a prominent member, would grant hearings to interests affected by the tariff bill when that measure reaches the senate, where demands by persons representing sufficiently important interests to consistently demand the attention of the committee. He said also that the committee was very hopeful of securing many replies to the circular letters of inquiry which were being sent broadcast over the land and he thinks these replies will furnish many valuable suggestions to the members of the committee.

The opinion is gaining ground steadily that the senate will be deliberate in its treatment of the bill. It was at first said that the Republican senators would not attempt to delay passage, but that after expressing their disapproval in brief debate would permit it to go to a vote. It does not appear as yet that there will be any organized opposition for the purpose of delay merely, but that there may be such organization is becoming evident if it should become possible that by it the defeat of the bill could be accomplished.

There are increasing indications that the passage of the bill in the senate may not be as certain as was supposed before it was put into shape, and there are senators who say openly that the bill should pass the house unchanged, and be reported from the senate finance committee in the same condition, it could not pass the senate in that shape in any event.

There are many items upon which the Democrats could not muster a majority, and which will probably be defeated by a combination with the Republicans, if they can not be changed in committee.

THE BULLETIN wishes its many friends and everybody else happiness and prosperity in this new year.

FIFTY cloak and clothing makers of Cincinnati sent on a protest against the Wilson bill a few years ago. George E. Paxton, of Georgetown, O., gets back at the crowd in a telling manner. He says that 50,000 people in and around Cincinnati are sufferers caused by the high prices they have to pay to the "fifty big firms," all on account of the high tariff and the protective system. Take the tariff off and give the people cheap clothing. Is it better, he asks, to protect this "Big Fifty" or this little 50,000? Who pays the freight, Jones or the 50,000—the manufacturers or the people?

THERE is a possibility that the enemies of Mr. Breckinridge may overdo the Pollard episode. Let the people of the Ashland district get the impression that the silver-tongued orator is not receiving fair play in that unfortunate episode, and he will have a walkover for the nomination. If Mr. Owens secures the nomination it should be on his merits, and not on the demerits of his opponent—Covington Commonwealth.

The latest news from Lexington indicates that the enemies of Mr. Breckinridge have done just what the Commonwealth considered a possibility. The silver-tongued orator was tendered an ovation at a meeting of prominent citizens of Lexington Thursday night. The same dispatch that brings this news says Hon. G. C. Lockhart will not enter the race, which leaves the field to Hon. W. C. Owens and Mr. Breckinridge. The tide appears to be running in Colonel B's direction at present.

THERE is evidently, as the Philadelphia Record says, a combined effort on the part of the managers of many of the largely over-protected industries, by threats of stoppage, to bring to bear upon Congress a demand on the part of the workingman for the defeat of the Wilson bill. This means of attack is made more easy and plausible by reason of the conditions of universal business depression in Europe and America which have been accentuated in this country by the recent financial crisis. There is a lull and an indecision in trade and traffic which would possibly justify stoppage in some industries, without reference to the prospect of tariff changes. Workingmen who do not read or who have given no thought to the operation of the tariffs may be by such means brought into an attitude of opposition to proposed revision; but we doubt if any serious impression will be made upon the mass.

GOOD ROADS AS CIVILIZERS.

There was nothing at the World's Fair that attracted more attention from practical minds than the exhibit illustrating the most approved methods of building and repairing roads. It is said that the greatest civilizers of the modern world are roads and schools. If this be so, there is a brilliant future for the civilization of this State. Thanks to the enterprising pioneers of Kentucky, the constructive methods of "Macadam" speedily lifted our civilization out of the mud; and the same liberal encouragement to capital and enterprise in the future will complete the noble system of thoroughfares which the pioneers began. The best invitation to capital that Kentucky can offer is to make the investment of it secure.

THE Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. is one of the most useful and popular organizations ever formed in this city, and its influence upon our local society promises the best possible results. Apart from the moral effect of such a movement, it has a marked influence in developing youthful talent and in elevating popular taste. The Tuesday evening debates of the Lyceum are largely attended. The speakers are thoroughly prepared and exhibit a talent for oratory that is surprising to the most critical listener. The good effect of such an association can hardly be exaggerated. It merits encouragement from every citizen who is interested in the moral and intellectual training of "our boys."

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL FUND.

The self-appointed guardians of the public schools of Kentucky—the A. P. A.—evidently have not given the Constitution of the State a very close study. For their information we publish the following:

Sec. 189. No portion of any fund or tax now existing, or that may hereafter be raised or levied for educational purposes, shall be appropriated to, or used by, or in aid of, any church, sectarian or denominational school.

If our deluded friends have been losing any sleep over this question, they should allow themselves to cool off. Now is a good time to turn over a new leaf. Get rid of your narrow-mindedness and bigotry, and be at peace with all the world.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF ADVERTISING.

What Horace Greeley Thought on This Subject, So Important to Every Merchant.

The merchant who aims to succeed in business must aim at two points: First, to be sure that he can satisfy a wide demand for the article he deals in on the lowest possible terms. Secondly, that everybody within the proper scope of his business is made aware of his ability, and confident of his disposition to do so. These points attained, he has only to do his business properly as it comes in upon him, and his fortune is made.

To the merchant or dealer who is sure of his ability to fill orders on the most favorable terms, the attainment of an adequate publicity is a matter of primary concern. If his circle of trade is properly the county in which he lives, then he should take effective measures to let every family in the county know what he sells and on what conditions. It is idle to speak of the cost as an impediment; he might as well object to the cost of sheltering his goods from bad weather, protecting them from thieves, or dealing them out to customers. All the other costs of his business is incurred without adequate motive or return, so long as this essential element of his business is neglected or scrimped. If his location and his stock only entitle him to expect the custom of his township or neighborhood, then he should incur the expense of fully informing that locality.—Horace Greeley.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 1.—A terrible punishment, according to report, has been inflicted upon a woman in Pondoland who was accused of causing the death of her child by witchcraft. The woman was bound to a stake planted in the middle of an ant hill, and her body, stripped of all clothing, was smeared from head to foot with grease. The ants, attracted by the grease, swarmed all over the unfortunate creature and eventually devoured her.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 1.—Colonel Robert Pace, the turfin, has written a letter to Secretary of State Romero Rubio of Mexico, throwing up his Benon racecourse concession. Colonel Pace refers to his efforts to make the meeting a success and to the woeful lack of transportation facilities. Unless the government comes to the rescue the Benon venture will be forever abandoned. The racecourse was intended by President Diaz to supersede bull fighting, which he prohibited in the federal district.

PROSPERITY OF THE SOUTH.

No "Hard Times" Down There—Cotton Mills Have Paid Handsome Dividends.

The Augusta Chronicle says editorially:

"In a year of unexampled depression in cotton manufacturing in the Eastern States, the mills of Georgia and South Carolina have been running on full time. With climate advantages, cheap water power and raw material at first cost, all large factories have made money and paid dividends. Mills in and around Augusta have made a splendid showing for the year just closing.

"The Augusta factory, capital $600,000, paid 6 per cent. dividends; Enterprise Manufacturing Company, capital $75,000, 6 per cent.; Sibley Manufacturing Company, $1,000,000 capital, 6 per cent.; King Manufacturing Company, $1,000,000 capital, 6 per cent.; Graniterville Manufacturing Company, 600 capacity, 10 per cent.

"The Langley Manufacturing Company increased its capital during the year from $400,000 to $600,000, and will pay a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. on increased capital. The dividends of these mills show that the South is the most inviting field for cotton goods, and indications are that in the near future more factories will be started in this section.

"In 1880 the South consumed 200,000 bales of cotton. In 1893 the Southern mills consumed 600,000 bales.

"Mills in the South have been running on full time and have paid good dividends."

A FOE TO SLAVERY DEAD.

The Career of Sir Samuel Baker, the African Explorer.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Sir Samuel Baker, the well known explorer, who commanded the expedition to suppress slave trade in Central Africa, 1869 to 1874, died at Newton Abbot. He was born June 8, 1821.

In 1861 Mr. Baker fitted out an expedition at his own expense for the discovery of the sources of the Nile and was accompanied throughout his journey by his wife. For nearly a year he explored Abyssinia, and in 1862, he descended the Blue Nile to Khartoum, and at the junction of the Blue and White Nile he organized a party to explore the sources of the latter river. In February, 1863, the explorers met Captains Speake and Grant, who had succeeded in reaching Lake Victoria Nyanza, which they believed to be the source of the Nile.

The deceased continued his explorations for several years and the Royal Geographical Society awarded him its Victoria gold medal, and on his return to England in 1886 he was created M. A. of the University of Cambridge and was subsequently knighted.

Sir Samuel Baker, 1869, undertook the command, under the auspices of the khyde, of an expedition to Central Africa, having at his disposal 500 picked Egyptian troops, and was entrusted for four years with absolute power of life and death. Sir Samuel Baker undertook to subdue the African wilderness, to annex it to the civilized world, to destroy the slave trade, to establish regular commerce in its place, and to add to Egypt the whole of the countries bordering on the Nile. Sir Samuel, who was accompanied by Lady Baker, left Cairo with his party on Sept. 2, 1869, and returned in 1878. Sir Samuel Baker was the author of a number of valuable works upon exploration and hunting, and was decorated with several foreign orders.
